

We as a family feel that being able to listen to a christian station has helped our children to be more loving instead of being subjected to the violent tendencies of the music played on most radio stations. I believe in free speech but there comes a time when good sense and judgement should take over.

The ability to have a choice should be strongly considered.

I enjoy radio as much as the next person but should not be forced to listen to a lot of the trash that is broadcast and considered music. Death violence and disrespect should not be the only option for my children to listen to.

There isn't even a lot of quality t.v. anymore which is why we very seldom have our tv turned on and we strictly monitor what our children are allowed to watch.

It would be a large disservice to take this station away from any community. This is loss of freedom of choice.

Why should we be forced to use what someone else decides for us?

I might not agree with everything that is broadcast but I do respect the right to broadcast it. We should have the right to listen to the station of our choice.
